Job Description

Maryville College, a four-year liberal arts college committed to superior teaching, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Sign Language and Deaf Studies beginning August 2020. Course program includes multiple ASL levels from beginning to advanced, as well as Deaf Culture, literature, and linguistics. Responsibilities include planning, coordinating, and evaluating a comprehensive American Sign Language and Deaf Studies curriculum, as well as working with current faculty in American Sign Language-English Interpreting. Additional duties include conducting essential ASL proficiency placement interviews with prospective and new students, comprehensive examinations, supervising senior study research and internships, and teaching in the College Core Curriculum and Maryville College Works program. Commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching is essential. Prior successful college-level teaching experience in ASL and a Masters degree in ASL, Deaf Studies, Linguistics, or related field are preferred AND evidence of American Sign Language Proficiency Interview (ASLPI) proficiency level of 4 or better and/or Sign Language Proficiency Interview in ASL (SLPI:ASL) proficiency level of Superior or Superior-Plus or the equivalent is expected.

Founded in Maryville, Tenn., in 1819, Maryville College is one of the oldest baccalaureate-granting institutions of higher learning in the South. Consistently ranked in the top tier of regional colleges and universities, it offers a curriculum notable for integrating a strong liberal arts core program, undergraduate research and emphasis on career preparation. The student body of about 1200 is drawn mostly from the Southeast, Middle Atlantic States and the Midwest. The College maintains an affiliation with the Presbyterian Church (USA) and encourages students, faculty and staff to grow in wisdom and work for justice.

Maryville is ideally situated between the Great Smoky Mountains National Park and Knoxville, the states third largest city, and is within minutes of the major research facilities of Oak Ridge Associated Universities (the College holds associate membership), the University of Tennessee, and Oak Ridge National Laboratory. Maryville College is also an institutional member of the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education (AASHE). Its historic, 263-acre campus includes a 140-acre multi-use forest.

Review of applications will begin January 6, 2020 and continue until the position is filled. Please apply online at <https://www.maryvillecollege.edu/about/inside/careers/> [1]. Application materials should include a letter of interest addressed to Dr. Kathie Shiba, Chair, Division of Behavioral Sciences, a curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching philosophy. Three letters of reference (two of which should address teaching experience and/or potential) should be submitted by referees to ASL.search@maryvillecollege.edu [2].

Maryville College is an equal opportunity employer. Visit Maryville Colleges website at www.maryvillecollege.edu [3].
